In 2012, we had a dream.....

First we dreamt of a building – the dream became true because the German Embassy paid for the building material and a master- builder from our Jabulani village designed and built for us at low cost.

Then we dreamt of an agricultural project. But we needed a strong fence. The fence and poles cost 6 000 Rand. We received a donation from Germany and our dream became true.

Then we needed seedlings and agricultural tools – and another donation from Germany helped us to start ploughing and prepare the soil for planting.

We managed to get water from the mountains.....

And now we have a vegetable garden.

Dear donors, may God bless you - you cannot imagine the joy of our children.

Happiness is..... growing your own vegetables. Report and photos by Zoleka Sauli, director of the project.
